

Appleton Crescent.

CITY OF APPLETON.
Saturday, Nov. 10, 1861.

Farewell:
To the Press and People of Wisconsin.
Duty calls; I must obey. An organized opposition to the Government of the United States seeks to destroy the Union and the Constitution. Although I came to Wisconsin's wilds as a mere child some thirty-five years ago; although I have undergone the privations incident to frontier life, and accepted the hospitality and favors of those who were but slightly removed from barbarism; I feel I have a right to give a parting word to the People and Press of Wisconsin.

The Press! My first connection as a Roller and Carrier Boy with the press of Wisconsin dates Sept. 6, 1841; my first paragraph was written in 1853.
Whether that connection has been profitable to the people or otherwise it is not my place or province to say.

I have made warm friends and bitter enemies. I have dealt unjustly by the latter, I regret it; because I like to have an open, honest and manly fight with each and all my enemies and opposers, in any manner or form they may desire.
Nearly nine years ago, I came to Appleton. The "Appleton Crescent" was established under labors and difficulties I care not now to recount. That it has done more than any other one agency to promote the interests of our Educational and Manufacturing City is my firm conviction.

I do not know that my labors in this respect are or have been fully appreciated; but I do know, however, and this is a consolation to me in any place or position I may hereafter be called upon to occupy, that I have discharged my duty to City, County and State, to the extent of my ability; and that the promotion of what I have deemed to be the best interests of city, county and state, has engaged my attention for years.

To the Press of Wisconsin with which I have had a continuous editorial connection since 1841, I wish to say that I thank you for all your kind attentions as well as your rough hearty blows. If my life is spared I hope to return your kindness and give blow for blow.

To my friends in City, County and State I tender my hearty thanks for favors received. May it be my lot never to forget my friends. As to my enemies—the narrow minded, penurious, jealous and short sighted scions of an inconsistent race. I ask no favors for those I leave behind, nor for myself on the battle field.

To the People all: If you care for Virtue, Liberty and Independence, support your local newspapers.

I shall write to the "Crescent" occasionally, as my health and other associations permit, to be connected with the Press.

Fellow Citizens, each and all, adieu. Sustain your Government, uphold the Constitution, enforce the laws.

S. RYAN, JR.

The Scholarship

Question is at last solved to our entire satisfaction, resulting as we knew it would in the election of Thomas R. Hudd.

The first Oconto Pioneer claimed a majority of 520 for Mr. Brown, when the truth is he had 141 maj. In Door, Belmont's maj. will be over 100. This County gives Hudd 574, Shawano Co. 175. So that Mr. Hudd has at last 100 maj.

Everything that money, influence, and intriguing could effect was done to defeat our candidate, but we are happy to say without any avail. The lesson taught by this defeat, we hope will be salutary. They will learn, by experience, after a while that there is virtue yet in the great heart of the masses.

Mr. Hudd will fully represent the whole District, regardless of cliques or unscrupulous designers. May we ever have cause to be proud of our Senator elect.

OUTAGAMIE COUNTY has covered herself with glory, by giving the largest Democratic majority ever received by any man in that county, and all of a third of the Democratic voters either gone to the war or staid away from the polls. We'd like to see Outagamie just send herself once, to see what she could do. Good morning, brother Sam; what have you to offer to that "propensity?"—Patriot

Thank you, Patriot to cents, for your favorable allusions to our gallant little Outagamie. You are right in saying that a third of the Democratic vote remained away from the polls, besides the numbers gone to fight for their country, and yet we have rolled up a sensible majority! The truth is that the people realize that in Democracy is the hope of the nation. "Brother Sam" has gone with a Co. of gallant boys to fight secessionism abroad, and if necessary, nullifiers at home. We shall poorly endeavor to fill his former editorial position in the Crescent, and next fall we hope to be able to announce an addition of three or four hundred to the present majority in the County.

For Chief Clerk of the next Assembly, which body will now unquestionably be Democratic, we nominate Gen. Hyer, of the Madison Patriot. He has been very favorably mentioned in that connection, and we heartily second the move. Mr. Hyer is one of those modest, amiable men of sterling integrity who makes friends everywhere. We have known him for years and can bear testimony as to his eminent fitness for this position. We hope to see him elected without opposition. What say you, Brother Democratic Editors?

G. W. Elliott, a sterling Democrat of Kewaunee County has been elected Member of Assembly. The County gives a Democratic majority. Allen, Ramsey and Lewis was on all the tickets, as they get all the votes as far as heard from.

PLEASE CORRECT.—The Appleton Crescent, and the Motor also, copies an article from the Eagle, and credits it to the Sparita Herald. Now gentlemen, this is "crowding the mourners." Mr. P. R. Hudd, your nominee for Senator, is a personal friend of ours, with whom we have associated as schoolmates in our boyhood. We were very much gratified by the nomination for State Senator of your district, and so expressed ourselves; but God save him from his friends, if they can't read better than the last numbers in off possession of the Crescent and Motor, seem to indicate. If E-a-g-l-e, spells H-e-r-a-l-d, B-a-d-e-m-a-y spells Hudd, and we fear Tom has really been scooped—has been made a sacrifice to the misapprehensions of his friends, who are too crazy or tight to read the signs of the times.

We find the above Noyes-y drive at us and the Motor, in the last number of the Sparita EAGLE, not herald. The type was taken by us from the Motor folks, so it is easy to account for the blunder. We don't x with your 'herald. As for B-a-d-e-m-a-y, spelling H-u-d-d, and your 'fence that 'Tom has been scooped,' it gives us pleasure to at once undeceive you. Hudd is out of the woods with a good, substantial maj, altho' Oconto did hold election for three days, and regulated their vote by the Returns from Outagamie and Shawano Counties. But that kind of Barstovism is played out. Duff your hat to Senator Hudd, of the 22d Senatorial District!

LATEST.—Gen. Nelson gained a signal victory in Ky, this week. He killed 400 rebels and captured 2,016 prisoners. Gen. Sherman seized $2,000,000 worth of cotton in the vicinity of Beaufort. Numbers of the citizens profess loyalty to Gov't.

Rebels are 40,000 strong at Winchester and 30,000 strong at Leesburg.

The privateer Sumpter has been captured at last.

Ben. McCulloch and sweet-scented Price are making tracks for Arkansas, and our troops are returning to St. Louis.

Senators Gwin and Benham have been arrested for treason.

Prospects are bright for a general fight in Russia.

"Taking the oath" is a standing joke with the rebels of Wirt County, Western Virginia, says the Wheeling Intelligencer. When a secessionist can show that he has shot or shot at Union man, or destroyed a man's property, his compatriots collect about and make him take the oath upon a pack of cards or a brickbat. They think it a good thing. All the rebels in that country will walk up in a body and take the oath every day for a week, if permitted to do so. They like it. They regard it as a license to do as they please. The oldest inhabitant has never seen the secessionists in Wirt County who would not take the oath gladly.

The administration has at last commenced arresting Abolition howlers. A correspondent writes that a man who has been sent to Fort Warren for his outrageous sentiments. Pity the whole batch of the Wendell Phillips, Garrisons, Gerrit Smiths, and their compeers of dissolution advocates, were not caged up with their secession fire eating brethren. And if kept there permanently the Union would suffer no loss.

GOOD AND GLORIOUS.—The election of that stirring Democrat and able advocate, J. Van Vechten Platts, Esq., in the 4th Ward of Milwaukee, to the Assembly, is a glorious triumph, for that is the stronghold of Republicanism in Milwaukee. His majority over Gifford, his next door neighbor, and a dyed-in-the-wool Republican, is some 400.

The Argus threatens to blow the Republican party "higher than a kite" if it attempts to shoulder Gov. Randall's war administration and the land grant corruptionists. "You'd better begin now, for that party will do its best to 'shoulder' both. At a proper time we propose to take a hand in the pastime."—Patriot.

CLERK OF THE ASSEMBLY.—George Hyer, Esq., of the Madison Patriot would make a tip top chief clerk of the Assembly, and his election to that position would not only honor a worthy man, but give that body a good officer. We do not know as he would take the place. He is just the man for the place.—LaC. Democrat.

Notwithstanding the Jersey blues, Democrats, have gone to the wars in the proportion of two to one of their opponents, still enough have stayed around home to give Republican Abolitionism as sound a thrashing as the rebels themselves deserve. Hurrah for the Jersey Democrats.

Senator Hicks, of Brown Co. is one of the wheel horses of Democracy in old Brown. He is deservedly popular with the party and they have evinced their appreciation of his worth by giving him a routing endorsement. Honor to Brown County.

Another Green Bay appointment. Harry Eugene Eastman of the Green Bay Press, has been commissioned as 2d Major of the 2d Wisconsin Cavalry. Good enough for you, Harry. How is it with that lame leg?

It is rumored that the Cavalry Reg't at Rigo, nominally commanded by law breaking Ragnels will remove their camp to Kenosha.

Breckinridge, Macon, Hunter and other prominent secessionists have property in Superior City to the amt of a million or more which of course will be confiscated.

GOOD FOR RICHMOND.—Leroy D. Gage, a sound Democrat, is elected to the Assembly from Richmond county. A Democratic gain.—Hurrah for Richmond.

Albert T. Shortell, 1st Rhode Island, who lost his arm at Bull Run, has been granted $8 per month.

Returned from an Exploring Expedition.

Mr. John F. Blandy, assistant editor of the Mining Gazette, of Portage Lake, arrived here last Thursday morning, by way of Green Bay and Little Bay de Noc, having been exploring the route from Portage Lake to Appleton. He reports having found a most excellent route, by way of L'Anse Bay, comparatively free from swamps and hills, and which runs through good farming and timber land the whole distance. It is proposed, by the contractor, to cut and grade this road 25 feet wide and clear it of timber a distance of one hundred feet on each side, through to the Wisconsin State line in the course of a year, and which he thinks will be done, a land grant amounting to one hundred and fifty thousand dollars having been made for this purpose. A gentleman of St. Paul, named Winslow, has guaranteed to meet them at the State line, and carry the road on to Appleton, and is now engaged soliciting aid from Chicago, Milwaukee and Appleton for this object. A line of telegraph will also extend along the route, and regular stages be run.

A connection with this road can be made about 55 miles west of Marquette, and, he thinks, that it will be the best and shortest winter route for the people of our county, and will meet with their hearty approbation. As a summer route, he prefers the Marquette and Little Bay de Noc road to Green Bay, as Green Bay, during navigation, is the nearest point by which we can obtain communication with the East; but is of the opinion, that, as a winter route, it would not draw much travel, even should the road be cut around the shore of the Bay, on account of Appleton being the nearest point in the winter, by which we could procure intercourse with the East, and it would be some 50 miles shorter by the other route, and could be travelled with as much facility in the night as in open day.

While in Appleton, a gentleman who had been a great Ontonagon road man, informed him, that he, had accepted an invitation from, and gone over the route with the surveyors. The first two days they endeavored to exhaust him, and put forth their utmost exertions to that end; but, overhearing a portion of their conversation, in which it was stated, that they had labored ardently and unceasingly for two whole days to "tire out the city chap," and that "it was of no use to try longer, for he seemed bound to go through," he determined to go through, and endured his sufferings like a martyr. He said the road was a succession of mud-holes, swamps and hills; that, in some places, they have to wade their packs, roll them down the hill, let the pony down with ropes, and tumble down themselves, as best they could, at the risk of breaking their necks, and that he had come to the only conclusion at which a sane man could arrive, that a road from Ontonagon to Appleton would be a good thing.

Wayward friends of Ontonagon have made the liberal donation of seven hundred dollars for the building of this road, and he is decidedly of the opinion that any mud-hole on the route would suck it in. With a blindness and stubbornness that seem almost madness, not only have they spurned our teachings and despised our counsels, but those also of their Portage Lake neighbors, and it is no more than just that they should reap the reward of their folly. So much for the "only practicable route on the Upper Peninsula."—Lake Superior Journal.

Editors Crescent: As I was the only "city chap" who "accepted" the invitation of the surveyors &c., I take it for granted that I am the Appleton "Gentleman" who dozed the "assistant Editor" so largely with abuse of the Ontonagon & Appleton Road. And as he so kindly sent me a copy of the Lake Superior Journal, containing the above article, directed to "Mr. Bignam."

"The man who went across" with Emerson I feel it my duty to respond and give to all concerned my version of the trip to Lake Superior, over the line of the Ontonagon and Appleton Road.

For several years a Road from Appleton to Lake Superior has been in agitation, and a general road convention was finally called to meet at Portage Lake, July 17th, 1861, to which I had the honor of being elected delegate from the City of Appleton. When nearly ready to start, a surveying party from Ontonagon, under the charge of Mr. Luke G. Emerson, arrived in town, and invited me to return with them.

I did accept the invitation, and July 1st started with Mr. E. on a journey of over 200 miles, through the woods and on foot; an undertaking, in the opinion of some of my friends, beyond my endurance; an opinion, I think, largely shared by Mr. E. But I bet my money on my own nag, and weighed as much, less by 10 at Lake Superior, as when I left Appleton, while Mr. E. lost 15 lbs. And here let me say, that I received from Mr. E. and his party nothing but kind and gentlemanly treatment, as also from the Agent and Employees of the Minnesota Mine, and Mr. Plummer, and Mr. Coburn, and his amiable Lady at Ontonagon.

The Route for 40 miles north of Shawano is mostly burnt openings, with sandy soil. From there to the State Line, the timber is a uniform admixture of Pine, Hemlock, and Hardwood, the soil sandy, loam, with gravel sub-soil; and the surface, as compared with the Prairies of Illinois, somewhat rolling; but compared with the streets of Portage Lake—a dead level.

In fact we were on the divide between the waters of Wisconsin River and Green Bay, with a steady up grade; streams small and easily crossed; and I did not see one of those abrupt stony formations that I have often heard described, as lying on the line south from Portage Lake, and the swamps are not one half as formidable as those in the clayey soil of our own county.

Near the State Line, on the west side of Lake Van Derzet, we struck the old road from Ontonagon to Wausau. This road slopes to the north, across what is called the south range, and for nearly 40 miles has a red clay soil, and at the time I passed over it, was muddy enough. It is however well cut out, and bridged, and is a pre-emptive good winter road, and has good station houses every 20 miles.

At the crossing of the Ontonagon River, 15 miles south of Lake Superior, and 5 miles south of Minnesota Mine, we struck the Mineral Range, and with the exception of one short rise, found a good and for the most part of the way, a new plank road to Ontonagon, which place we reached July 20th, took tea for the convention.

From the "Ontonagon Miner" I learned the convention quarreled and broke up in a row. I went however to Portage Lake and read the proceedings of said Convention in the "Mining Gazette." Went to Marquette—invested a dime in Marquette news papers and found no mention whatever of the convention, and came home with the impression that Ontonagon, Portage Lake and Marquette were quarreling among themselves, and would not unite on any line whatever.

Soon after my return we received from Ontonagon a proposition to open a winter road over the route surveyed by Mr. Emerson. The contract was finally let to Mr. David Plummer, (who was one of Mr. Emerson's party, and consequently well acquainted with the route) Ontonagon bearing most of the burden and Appleton the rest.

Mr. Plummer left Appleton about the first of Oct. with team, supplies and 7 men, and from my knowledge of the man I have no fears of his being "sucked in" to any "mud hole" until he opens a winter road to Lake Superior.

In reference to the 20 foot Turnpike and Telegraph wire operation I have not the least confidence in it; and I told Mr. Blandy so, (and I did not tell him Emerson's route was a succession of mud holes, swamps and hills) and promised him "only my prayers, and I take that back now—the sinner that he is, he needs the prayers of some good man badly."

He did not explore a route from Portage Lake to Appleton. He went direct to Oconto. He told me so himself, when I asked him on what line he came through our County.

The real object of all this splashing, is to divert the line of the Rail Road from its present location, carry it to Green Bay and from thence to Oconto, and ultimately to L'Anse Bay.

This famous Turnpike and Telegraph when completed, will be found to be a Rail Road grade, ready to receive the Iron and Rolling Stock of some Legislation Jobbing Company which will meet in a mud hole and organize, receive the land granted by Michigan and Wisconsin, and sell out the next day to the Chicago & North Western.

To build the Turnpike, two kinds of Puppies will be needed to do the backing. One at the Legislature, for Land grants, and the other at the next meeting to advance the money and take the lands. We shall hear the barking—but will they get the land grants and the money! We shall see.

You have given your "teachings" and "counsel" to Ontonagon—and I gave mine to you, my Assistant Editorial Explorer, and it is this—

"Honesty is the best policy" and further—It is a bad way to begin to build your own house, by laying your dirty hands upon the house of your Neighbor.

HEAD QUARTERS KING'S BRIGADE, I. ARLINGTON, Nov. 4th, 1861.

Dear Crescent.—By the heading of this letter you will see that King's Brigade still remains at Arlington Heights. We have been at this camp as long as at any since we went to Camp Randall, and may naturally expect to receive orders to march in a few days, or a week at least. That's the way with the soldier; he gets his quarters comfortably arranged when the "Long Roll" calls him away, then it takes him a long time to "fix up again." Our extra clothing, and all of the little trinkets are easily packed into our knapsacks; knives, forks, plates and spoons are put in the haversacks, the cup is made fast to the canteen, and then the gun and cartridge box composes the load. All then are made ready in a very few moments.

Gen. King's Head Quarters are ten rods from the somewhat famous Arlington House, or Lee House, as it is frequently called. We have taken some pains to look about the premises, and as a description of a secessionists residence, though it be wanting, may be of interest to the readers of the Crescent, we give it.

The house is within less than a mile from the Potomac, directly west of the city. It is built of stone and brick, sixty feet front and fifty deep, three stories high. The portico is spacious and relieved by pillars of white marble each five feet in diameter.

We will now enter the front door and pass through the arch traitor's home, or what at one time was his abiding place. On the first floor there are five rooms. Our right as we enter, is the sitting room, which is now used by Col. Ingalls, Quartermaster of McDowell's Division. Where Gen. Lee and his friends have partaken of only wines in happiness, we now see the rooms alive with clerks and military men. In one corner is a telegraph office. On our left is the spacious parlor. This large room is now the Topographical Room. At the south of this room we pass into another large, nice room, which is occupied by Capt. James Fry, Gen. McDowell's Adjutant General. This, too, is filled with clerks and officers. Turning to the right we find the room occupied by Brig. Gen. McDowell. This is not as large as the ones we have first left which is the cause of its being occupied by the Gen., who has but few in his room, either as aids or "cellars." South of this is the dining room. This is still used as a dining room for officers. The flight of stairs leads us to the second story. On this floor are two large apartments, and several bedrooms. Reaching the third floor we turn to the left and come to Brigadier Gen. King's room, a neatly finished room, in which the Wisconsin General appears as contented and natural as if in a Sanetum Editorial. The other large apartments on this floor, we are of the opinion, must have been detailed for niggers and children. We will now take a peep at the flower garden. Some two acres are enclosed. It is well marked with gravelled walks. In it can be found all kinds of flowers, shrubs, &c. Well to say the least, the garden is well worth going through if a person has a taste for floriculture.

From the upper story one gets the best view of the capital city of any point about the city, which fact alone renders the "Lee Place" attractive to persons visiting the National Capital.

You will remember this place as once being the property of the Custis family. The property has been, or is about to be, confiscated.

The late battle has had a tendency to add renewed courage to the men. To see the way our killed were treated by the rebels is enough to make one's blood boil with anger. The Mass. 15th, which was the Regiment must out to pieces, was at one time in this Brigade, and was composed of as fine a set of men as has yet come into Washington, so says the high officials.

Another change has taken place in Co. "G." Orlely Reeder has been promoted 1st Lieutenant of Co. "G," and Corporal James P. Parkhurst has been promoted to Orlely.

Orlely Parkhurst has always acted the part of a gentleman in the company, performed the duties of a soldier to the entire satisfaction of his officers, and made himself beloved by all who know him. He was appointed Corporal a month since and has performed the duties so well in that capacity, that, in connection with his being eminently qualified for the position has secured him the honorable post he now occupies. He goes to work as humbly as an old experienced soldier. May success attend him. We will venture the assertion that in the less than two months Mr. P. will have the shoulder straps on. He is worthy of them.

An effort is being made to get this Regiment over in the city the coming winter, and we believe with a good show for success. If this is accomplished, you may rest assured this Reg't will see no fighting. Every man has been furnished with a pair of white gloves, in order we suppose, that we may look acceptable in the eyes of Abraham.

But here comes the officer of the day, yelling at the top of his voice, "lights out."

Yours, JERRY.
